I was so furious today not to see you terribly dearest creature:
I was thinking tomorrow is Julian's birthday & how I saw him in his cradle. You know I'd do anything
I could to help you, & so awful
not to be able to: & glad to adore
you as I do.
Then don't want an answer: do only forgive Ken
my own darling.

11th March,

I never realised, till I bought a Calendar yesterday, that it is already 11th May March. We're 10 days late.

I'm told that Angelica absolutely means to go to the Stephen's party tomorrow: & I dont suppose I shall dare.

I was going to inflict myself for tea upon you, but have to spend the hours between tea & dinner correcting what i absolutely the worst book I've ever written, let alone that I want, when published, have a friend left. But you won't have missed me.

Shall we come in on Sunday night?

My unfortunate mother-in-law
has just been knocked down & seriously hurt by a maid running out of a bedroom.
We were going to go & see her tomorrow, or I hoped to respect [illegible]
that all: & take that [illegible] adieu [illegible]

Sunday,

I'm slightly worried to think that you're going to the Stephen Tennyson play. I found it rather upsetting; & though I daresay it's foolish to be upset in that way, - there a young man killed & of course one thinks of Julian - I can't help wishing you wouldn't go. I expect this is silly: but I thought I'd say so. So forgive B.

As it is Cranium night tomorrow, Thursday, would you & Angelica dine with me; or might I dine, or come in after, with you? I rang up, but no answer; & so write tactfully, so that you can say just what you like. But would you ring up.

Yours Leo.

Monday

The picture has just been nailed up – it's perfectly lovely – what a great artist you are !· Everything complete & entire, firm as marble & ravishing as a rain bow. How I wish I were a painter! It's as good as having a new art painting. Do consider our plan – I'm sure it might be a howling success. No bill with it. Whom do I pay ?

Chair ?

And have you bought the Go to Heals. I have an account there. Also set a cover, included.

I've just heard that Redpath's mother is very ill, so she's had to give up all work.

I coming to tea, Louie. We shall be back on Saturday, but you won't be there. What about dinner on Monday at 52 — Yes, Duncan, A?

Look how our dove sends me
heavenly joy.
